Defects Analysis Galway

Defects Analysis

This process involves the investigation of facts to identify the cause of any existing building defect. Remedial works can then be determined and associated cost prepared. Chartered Building Surveyors are specifically trained in principles and processes of construction and in the capabilities of materials.